We welcome your books for review. Don't assume we can get them from your publisher or from Netgalley. Send them to us! Our only criteria is we need them at least two months before your publication date so we can do the review in time for your book release. LouiseSnead@affairedecoeur.com

Summer bonus for our newsletter subscribers only! $15—your cover on the genre review page for one month, with a link of your choice, and we'll blast you all over our social media sites. Or $150 for one year and you can change the book/link as often as you want!

Authors! Get your books out there in front of our readers today! Name recognition and exposure is half the battle. Email us today to reserve your spot. We have over 700 shares and likes a day on just our twitter account. We want to help you Sell that Book!

Thrilled to announce that our friend Gregg Hurwitz has a movie coming out!

Eighteen years ago, Gregg started writing a screenplay about a boy prodigy, his younger brother, and the single mother raising them. It wasn't commissioned by a studio, didn't have anyone attached, and he had no idea where it was going to land. But these characters demanded to be written. After countless revisions and a whole lotta hoop jumping, their story is finally making it to the big screen.

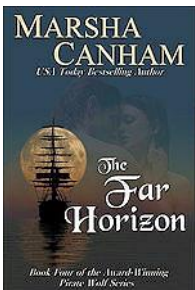

Starring Naomi Watts, Jacob Tremblay, Jaeden Lieberher, Maddie Zeigler, Dean Norris, Lee Pace, Bobby Moynihan, Tonya Pinkins, and Sarah Silverman, THE BOOK OF HENRY will premiere at the Los Angeles Film Festival

Amanda Scott's new book has launched. THE RELUCTANT HIGHLANDER is the story of a Border lass who rather abruptly finds herself married to a "barbaric" Highlander...mystery, intrigue, action, and romance in 15th century Scotland. Now available in trade paperback or eBook from your favorite bookstore and online. Enjoy! THE RELUCTANT HIGHLANDER, JUNE 2017
